

Genesis and the Books of Moses: Unlocking the Mysteries of the Pentateuch

I. Course Description

This course will introduce the student to the literature, history, and theology of the first five books of the Bible. After addressing the question of the sources and authorship, students will read through the Pentateuch in its entirety, with an emphasis on the major covenants of salvation history in Genesis and Exodus, the meaning of ancient Israelite sacrifice, priesthood, and the liturgical calendar in Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers, and the legal material in Deuteronomy. Historical questions surrounding the patriarchs, Moses, and the exodus from Egypt will also be addressed with help from biblical archeology. In addition, we will draw on modern biblical scholarship in order to guide us in the task of close exegesis of the actual text of the Pentateuch, with a particular focus on the theological claims of the various books. In so doing, the course will set out to impart a working familiarity with the five books which are still revered by both Jews and Christians alike as the foundational documents of the biblical canon and the inspired Word of God.

II. Course Goals/Intended Outcomes

By the end of this course, students should be able to demonstrate familiarity with:

1. The literary forms and contents of the Pentateuch.
2. Ancient and modern beliefs about how the Pentateuch and its sources were compiled.
3. The major figures and events of salvation history as recorded in the Pentateuch.
4. The meaning of ancient Israelite sacrifice and priesthood described in the Pentateuch.
5. The ancient Israelite liturgical calendar; the significance of the various annual feasts.
6. Historical questions surrounding the patriarchs, Moses, the exodus from Egypt, and the conquest of the land of Canaan by the Israelite peoples.
7. The theological vision of God embodied and revealed in the Pentateuch.

III. Course Rationale

“Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law and the Prophets; I have come not to abolish but to fulfill them. For truly, I say to you, till heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished.”
—Matthew 5:17-18

“Do not think that I shall accuse you to the Father; it is Moses who accuses you, on whom you set your hope. If you believed Moses, you would believe me, for he wrote of me. But if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe my words?”
—John 5:45-46

Who Wrote the Pentateuch?

1. Arguments for Mosaic Authorship

Internal Biblical Evidence for Mosaic Authorship<sup>1</sup>

1. Moses' wrote about the battle with the Amalekites (Exod 17:14)
2. Moses' wrote down the stages of the exodus journey (Num 33:2)
3. Moses' wrote the "the words of the covenant" on tablets (Exod 24:4; 34:27)
4. Moses' wrote the book of Deuteronomy (Deut 1:1)

And Moses wrote this law, and gave it to the priests the sons of Levi, who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all the elders of Israel. And Moses commanded them, "At the end of every seven years, at the set time of the year of release, at the feast of booths, when all Israel comes to appear before the LORD your God at the place which he will choose, you shall read this law before all Israel in their hearing. Assemble the people, men, women, and little ones, and the sojourner within your towns, that they may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God, and be careful to do all the words of this law, and that their children, who have not known it, may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as you live in the land which you are going over the Jordan to possess... When Moses had finished writing the words of this law in a book, to the very end, Moses commanded the Levites who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD, "Take this book of the law, and put it by the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witness against you." (Deuteronomy 31:9-13, 24-26)

5. Absence of references to any author but Moses in Pentateuch.

External Biblical Evidence for Mosaic Authorship

1. Repeated references to "The Law of Moses" or "Book of Moses."<sup>2</sup>
2. Explicit testimony that Joshua copied the Law onto tablets (cf. Josh 23:6)

Then Joshua built an altar in Mount Ebal to the LORD, the God of Israel, as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded the people of Israel, as it is written in the book of the law of Moses... And there, in the presence of the people of Israel, he wrote upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he had written. (Joshua 8:31-32)

3. Jesus says Moses wrote the Ten Commandments:

For Moses said, "Honor your father and your mother," and "He who speaks evil of father or mother, let him die." (Mark 7:10)

<sup>1</sup> Scott Hahn, ed., Catholic Bible Dictionary (New York: Doubleday, 2009), 690-93; M. H. Segal, The Pentateuch: Its Composition and Its Authorship (Jerusalem: Magnes/The Hebrew University, 1967), 95-102; Augustin Cardinal Bea, De Pentateucho (Rome: Biblicum, 1933); Archbishop Smith, Mosaic Authorship of the Pentateuch (London: Sands, 1913).

<sup>2</sup> Law of Moses: 1 Kgs 2:3; 14:6; 23:5; Ezra 3:2; 6:18; Neh 8:1, 13-18; Book of Moses: 2 Chron 25:4; 35:12; Neh 13:1.

4. Jesus identifies Moses as the author of the Law:

Do not think that I shall accuse you to the Father; it is Moses who accuses you, on whom you set your hope. If you believed Moses, you would believe me, for he wrote of me. But if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe my words? (John 5:45-47)

5. Sadducees identify Moses as author of Deuteronomy:

Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man's brother dies and leaves a wife, but leaves no child, the man must take the wife, and raise up children for his brother." (Mark 12:19; citing Gen 38; Deut 25:5-10)

6. Paul speaks of Moses "writing" Leviticus:

Moses writes that the man who practices the righteousness which is based on the law shall live by it. (Rom 10:5, citing Lev 18:5)

External Evidence from Jewish Writings Outside the Bible

1. Josephus, first century Jewish historian, attributes the whole Pentateuch to Moses:

As [Moses] was going to embrace Eleazar and Joshua, and was still discoursing with them, a cloud stood over him on the sudden, and he disappeared in a certain valley, although he wrote in the holy books that he died, which was done out of fear, lest they should venture to say that, because of his extraordinary virtue, he went to God.<sup>3</sup>

2. The Mishnah:

"Moses received the Law from Sinai and committed it to Joshua."<sup>4</sup>

3. Ancient Jewish Tradition: Moses wrote the Pentateuch; Joshua wrote the ending:

Who wrote the Scriptures?—Moses wrote his own book and the portion of Balaam and Job. Joshua wrote the book which bears his name and [the last] eight verses of the Pentateuch. Samuel wrote the book which bears his name and the Book of Judges and Ruth. David wrote the book of Psalms, including in it the work of ten elders, namely, Adam, Melchizedek, Abraham, Moses, Heman, Yeduthun, Asaph, and the three sons of Korah. Jeremiah wrote the book which bears his name, the Book of Kings, and Lamentations. Hezekiah and his colleagues wrote [i.e., edited/published] Isaiah, Proverbs, the Song of Songs and Ecclesiastes. The Men of the Great Assembly wrote Ezekiel, the Twelve Minor Prophets, Daniel, and the Scroll of Esther. Ezra wrote the book that bears his name and the genealogies of the Book of Chronicles up to his own time... Who then finished it [the Book of Chronicles]?—Nehemiah the son of Hachaliah.<sup>5</sup>

2. Arguments against Mosaic Authorship

Objections to Mosaic Authorship<sup>6</sup>

1. Moses could not have narrated his own death (post-Mosaica)
So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD, and he buried him in the valley in the land of Moab opposite Beth-peor; but no man knows the place of his burial to this day. . . (Deuteronomy 34:5-6)
2. Moses could not have narrated the succession of Joshua (Deut 34:9-12)
3. Moses would not have stated that he was the “most meek” man alive.
 Now the man Moses was very meek, more than all men that were on the face of the earth. (Num 12:3)
4. Chronological References reflect a later time (Ibn Ezra; 12th Cent. A.D.)
  - a. Reference to Canaanites (Gen 12:6)
  - b. Reference to Kings of Israel (Gen 36:31)
5. Apparent Contradictions point to Multiple Authors (Gen 1 vs. 2; Gen 6-9)
6. Presence of Doublets points to Multiple Authors:
  - a. Two creation stories (Gen 1 and 2)
  - b. Patriarch lying about his wife being his sister (Gen 12, 20, 26)
7. Objections to Mosaic authorship have a long history.
  - a. Ehiphianus: heretics rejected Mosaic authorship in 2nd century<sup>7</sup>
  - b. Thomas Hobbes: Moses antedated Pentateuch (1651).<sup>8</sup>

The Origins of the Documentary Hypothesis<sup>9</sup>

1. Richard Simon: French Catholic priest (17th century)
  - a. Pentateuch could not have been written by Moses; composed centuries later
  - b. Simon’s work was suppressed in France, and he was expelled from his order
2. Baruch (Benedict) Spinoza: Jewish scholar (17th century)
  - a. Repetitions and Contradictions point to multiple authors
3. Jean Astruc: French Catholic physician; argued multiple authors (18th century; 1735)
  - a. God is given different names: Elohim and Yahweh (“Astruc’s clue”)
  - b. Presence of “Doublets”: stories recorded more than once.
  - c. Moses placed four columns (ABCD) side by side; later editor confused them
4. Julius Wellhausen: German biblical scholar; foremost proponent (19th cent.; 1880s)
  - a. Moses did not author Pentateuch at all; pieced together at later times
  - b. The 4 Sources are abbreviated “J,” “E,” “D,” and “P.”
  - c. Espoused an Evolutionary view of Religion (from simple ‘J’ to cultic ‘P’)
  - d. Combined it with anti-Semitism and anti-Catholicism.<sup>10</sup>

3. The Documentary Hypothesis<sup>11</sup>

Five “Pillars” of the Documentary Hypothesis<sup>12</sup>

1. The use of different names for the Deity (‘Astruc’s clue’)<sup>13</sup>
2. Variations of language and style.
3. Contradictions and divergences of view.
4. Duplications and repetitions.
5. Signs of composite structure in various sections.

J: The Yahwist Source

1. Date: 10th century B.C. (oldest of the four sources)
2. Provenance: Judah
3. Style: simple, using YHWH for the name of God
4. Theology: anthropomorphic view of God (e.g., Genesis 2)

E: The Elohist Source

1. Date: 9th century B.C.
2. Provenance: northern kingdom of Israel
3. Style: moralistic, using name Elohim for God
4. Theology: viewed God as transcendent (e.g., Genesis 1)
5. History: after 722 B.C., northerners fled south with E document; later joined to J by an unknown redactor

D: The Deuteronomist Source

1. Date: 7th century B.C.
2. Provenance: Levitical circles in Israel
3. Style: concerned with preaching Mosaic religion
4. Theology: emphasized centralization of worship in Jerusalem Temple
5. History: early form of Deuteronomy planted in Temple by Josiah (2 Kgs 22:8)
6. Later on, D was joined to J and E by an unknown redactor

P: The Priestly Source

1. Date: 6th century B.C. (time of Babylonian Exile)
2. Provenance: Jewish priests in exile
3. Focus: genealogies, priestly rubrics of worship, holiness (e.g., Leviticus)
4. History: authored by final editors of the Pentateuch; 4th-5th centuries B.C.

4. The Pontifical Biblical Commission “On the Mosaic Authorship of the Pentateuch” (1906)

The PBC Decree on Mosaic Authorship<sup>14</sup>

1. Affirmed the Mosaic Authorship of the Pentateuch for four reasons:
  - a. Biblical Testimonies to Mosaic Authorship in Old and New Testaments.
  - b. Persistent consensus of the Jewish People.
  - c. Constant tradition of the Church.
  - d. Internal evidence derived from the text itself.

Qualifications of the PBC Position

1. Mosaic authorship does not require that he wrote everything with his own hand
  - a. Whether the Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch necessarily demands that the whole work was so produced that it is absolutely necessary to hold that everything in it was written by Moses with his own hand or dictated to secretaries?
  - b. Or whether the hypothesis is admissible according to which he conceived the work itself under the influence of divine inspiration, but entrusted to another person or persons to write it down; in such a way, however, that they faithfully produced his thoughts, wrote nothing against his will, or omitted anything; and finally, the work produced was approved by Moses, as the principal and inspired author, and made public under his name?

Reply: Negative to the first part. Affirmative to the second part.<sup>15</sup>

2. Allows that Moses made use of sources, whether written or oral:

Whether, without prejudicing the Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch, it can be granted that Moses made use of sources in producing his work, namely written documents or oral traditions from which he took some things and inserted them in the work, either word for word or substantially, abridged or amplified, as suited his special purpose and under the influence of divine inspiration?

Reply: Affirmative.

3. Any theory must allow for “the influence of divine inspiration.”
4. Allows that over time “certain alterations” have been introduced to the text, e.g.:
  - a. The account of Moses’ death (e.g., Deut 34)
  - b. Glosses (e.g., Num 12:3)
  - c. Explanations
  - d. Words or Forms translated from ancient into more current languages
  - e. Faulty Readings attributed to the errors of copyists

<sup>14</sup> See Pontifical Biblical Commission, “On the Mosaic Authorship of the Pentateuch,” in Dean P. Bécard, The Scripture Documents: An Anthology of Official Catholic Teachings (Collegeville: Liturgical Press, 2002), 188-89; ASS 39 (1906): 377-78; DS 3394-3397; EB 181-84; Charles A. Briggs and Friedrich von Hügel, The Papal Commission and the Pentateuch (London: Longmans, Green, & Co., 1906).

4. Recent Critiques of the Documentary Hypothesis<sup>16</sup>

No External Evidence

1. The existence of J, E, D, and P is purely hypothetical.
  - a. No one has ever found a manuscript of J
  - b. No one has ever found a manuscript of E
  - c. No one has ever found a manuscript of D
  - d. No one has ever found a manuscript of p
2. The Bible never alludes to the J, E, D, or P documents, even though it frequently and refers to other literary sources.
  - a. “The book of generations of Adam” (Gen 5:1)
  - b. “The book of the Wars of the LORD” (Num 21:14)
  - c. “The book of Jashar” (Josh 10:13; 2 Sam 1:18)
  - d. “The book of the annals of Solomon” (1 Kgs 11:41)
  - e. “The book of the annals of the Kings of Israel”
(1 Kgs 14:19, 35 times in Kings and Chronicles!)
  - f. “The book of the kings of Judah and Israel” (2 Chron 16:11; 20:34; 24:27)
  - g. “The book of the annals of the kings of Media” (Esth 10:2)

Other Problems

1. Highly Speculative nature of the Theory:<sup>17</sup>
  - a. Compare Synoptic Problem, where we actually have multiple sources
  - b. Is it really possible to unravel the sources of the Pentateuch?
  - c. We only have one text; not multiple copies
  - d. The text is written in ancient language, not our native tongue
  - e. Over two millennia separate us from the culture of the text
2. No Real Consensus among Scholars, despite textbook simplifications:
  - a. There is no actual consensus about the contents of J, E, D, and P
  - b. There is no actual consensus about the dating of J, E, D, and P
  - c. Every scholar’s reconstructed “source” differs from every other
  - d. Hypothetical dates differ sometimes by 500 years or more!<sup>18</sup>
3. Positive Signs of Antiquity in the Pentateuch:
  - a. Cross-Cultural Parallels with ancient Egypt in Second Millennium B.C.<sup>19</sup>

<sup>16</sup> See esp. Cassuto, The Documentary Hypothesis; see also Walter Kaiser, The Old Testament Documents: Are They Reliable and Relevant? (Downers Grove: InterVarsity, 2001), 137-38; R. N. Whybray, The Making of the Pentateuch: A Methodological Study (JSOT Supplement Series 53; Sheffield: JSOT, 1987).

<sup>18</sup> “There is at the present moment no consensus whatever about when, why, how, and through whom the Pentateuch reached its present form, and opinions about the dates of composition of its various points differ by more than five hundred years.” R. N. Whybray, Introduction to the Pentateuch (Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1995), 12-13, cited in Alexander, From Paradise to the Promised Land, 61 (emphasis added).

(not literature from the 6th cent. B.C.)<sup>20</sup>

Ancient Hittite Treaties (2000-1000 B.C.)

1. Prelude: (“These are the words of X”)
2. Historical Prologue (history of relations)
3. Obligations of the Vassal toward Suzerain
4. Provision for Deposit and Public Reading
5. List of Divine Witnesses to Treaty
6. Curses and Blessings (obedience or failure)

Book of Deuteronomy

Testing the Five Pillars

1. Different ‘Names’ for God: can be explained by their different meanings:<sup>21</sup>
  - a. “God” (elohim) is not a name but a common noun; used in universal contexts
  - b. “LORD” (YHWH) is a personal name used in covenantal contexts
  - c. Gen 1 emphasizes God’s universal sovereignty over creation
  - d. Gen 2 emphasizes God’s covenantal relationship with Adam
2. Differences in language and style are not necessarily signs of independent sources.
  - a. Differences of subject matter
  - b. Alterations of vocabulary for literary, theological, customary reasons
3. Apparent Contradictions can be reconciled through close analysis:
  - a. See below: “Do Genesis 1-2 contradict one another?”
  - b. Contradictions in the Flood Accounts? (Gen 6-11)
4. Repetitions and doublets are not necessarily signs of independent sources.
  - a. Ancient parallels use doublets as literary artistry<sup>22</sup>
  - b. Abraham lied about his wife
  - c. Isaac lied about his wife
5. Arguments from composite structure are often “illogical” and “self-contradictory.”
[T]he theory is illogical, self-contradictory, and deficient in the very areas it sets out to explain. For example, the theory begins... by assuming that the original sources were noncontradictory and without repetition. But when the sources were combined together, a repetitious and contradictory account resulted. If the early writers could not, and did not, tolerate contradiction and repetition, what changed to make the redactors who combined the sources to suddenly glory in what had been unacceptable? Or put the other way around, if the later writers did not mind such features, why should we suppose that the composers of the alleged original sources did?<sup>23</sup>

<sup>21</sup> See the devastating arguments in Cassuto, The Documentary Hypothesis, 15-41. Contrast that with the fact that “[Astruc’s clue] has become virtually an article of faith among biblical scholars.” D. B. Redford, A Study of the Biblical Story of Joseph (Genesis 37-50) (Leiden: Brill, 1970), 108, cited in Kaiser, The Old Testament Documents, 134.

Do Genesis 1 and 2 Contradict One Another?

The Apparent Contradiction: Two Opposing Creation Stories?

1. Genesis 1: Order of Creation

- |   |  |
|---|--|
| a. Light and Darkness (1 st Day) | d. Sun, Moon, and Stars (4 th Day)    |
| b. Sea and Sky (2 nd Day)        | e. Water Animals and Birds (5 th Day) |
| c. Plants (3 rd Day)             | f. Land Animals and Man (6 th Day)    |

2. Genesis 2: Order of Creation

In the day when that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, when no plant of the field was yet in the earth and no herb of the field had yet sprung up... then the LORD God formed man of dust from the ground... And out of the ground the LORD God made to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food... (Genesis 2:4-9)

Then the LORD God said, "It is not good that the man should be alone, I will make a helper fit for him. So out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and brought them to the man to see what he would call them...

So the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon the man, and while he slept he took one of his ribs and closed up its place with flesh; and the rib which the LORD God had taken from the man he made into a woman... (Genesis 2:18-22)

3. The Apparent Contradiction:

Genesis 1

1. Plants (3rd Day)
2. Animals (5th and 6th Days)
3. Man and Woman (6th Day)

Genesis 2

1. Man
2. Plants
3. Animals
4. Woman

4. Scholarly Skepticism:

"It is impossible to reconcile the account [of creation] given here [in Genesis 1] with that which follows in Genesis 2-3, which suggests that even for ancient readers the two accounts of creation were not taken as literally true."<sup>24</sup>

Pope Benedict XV: No Real Contradictions in Scripture

Again, "Scripture cannot lie"; it is wrong to say Scripture lies, nay, it is impious even to admit the very notion of error where the Bible is concerned. "The Apostles," [Saint Jerome] says, "are one thing; other writers" - that is, profane writers - "are another; the former always tell the truth; the latter - as being mere men - sometimes err," and though many things are said in the Bible which seem incredible, yet they are true; in this "word of truth" you cannot find things or statements which are contradictory, "there is nothing discordant nor conflicting"; consequently, "when Scripture seems to be in conflict with itself both passages are true despite their diversity." (Benedict XV, Spiritus Paraclitus 5)

Saint Augustine's Rule: "And if in these Books I meet anything that seems contrary to truth, I shall not hesitate to conclude that

- (1) the text is faulty, or
- (2) that the translator has not expressed the meaning of the passage, or
- (3) that I myself do not understand." (Letters 82, to St. Jerome)

Genesis 1: Order of Creation

3rd Day: And God said, “Let the earth put forth vegetation (deshe) plants yielding seed, and fruit trees bearing fruit in which is their seed...” And it was so. The earth brought forth vegetation, plants yielding seed according to their own kinds, and trees bearing fruit in which is their seed... And there was evening and there was morning, a third day. (Genesis 1:11-13)

5th Day: And God said, “Let the waters bring forth swarms of living creatures (sheretz nephesh hayah), and let flying creatures (oph) fly above the earth...” So God created the great sea monsters (taninim) and every living creature that moves with which the waters swarm.. and every flying creature (kol oph kanaph) according to its kind... An God blessed them, saying, “...Fill the waters in the seas, and let flying creatures multiply on the earth.” And there was evening and there was morning, a fifth day. (Genesis 1:20-23) [note: cf. Ezek 39:4, which refers to “winged creatures” and “wild beasts.”]

6th Day: And God said, “Let the earth bring forth living creatures according to their kinds: cattle (behemah) and creeping things (remesh) and beasts of the earth (hayto erez) according to their kinds.” And it was so... Then God said, “Let us make man (adam) in our image... So God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them... And it was so. And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good. And there was evening and there was morning, a sixth day. (Genesis 1:26-31)

Genesis 2: Order of Creation

In the day when that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, when no plant of the field (siah hasadeh) was yet in the earth and no herb of the field (eseb hasadeh) had yet sprung up—for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was no man to till the ground; but a mist went up from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground—then the LORD God formed man (ha'adam) of dust from the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life... And the LORD God planted a garden in Eden... And out of the ground the LORD God made to grow every tree (etz) that is pleasant to the sight and good for food... (Genesis 2:4-9)

Then the LORD God said, “It is not good that the man should be alone, I will make a helper fit for him. So out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field (hayath hasadeh) and every bird of the heavens (oph hashamayim), and brought them to the man to see what he would call them; and whatever the man called every living creature, that was its name. The man gave names to all cattle, and to birds of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for the man there was not found a helper fit for him. So the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon the man, and while he slept he took one of his ribs... and the rib which the LORD God had taken from the man he made into a woman (Heb ishah) and brought her to the man. (Genesis 2:18-22)

Genesis 2: 6th Day; Close-Up

1. Man
2. Domestic Plants
  - Plants of the field
  - Herb of the field; Trees for Food
3. Domestic Animals
  - Beasts of the field
  - Birds of the Air; Cattle
4. Woman

Modern Commentators on Genesis 1-2: An Irreconcilable Contradiction?

1. Umberto Cassuto:

“What is meant by the “plant of the field” and the “herb of the field” mentioned here [in Genesis 2]? Modern commentators usually consider the terms to connote the vegetable kingdom as a whole; thence it follows that our section contradicts the preceding chapter [Genesis 1], according to which vegetation came into being on the third day... All interpretations of this kind introduce something into the text which is not there, in order to create the inconsistency. When the verse declares that these species were missing, the meaning is simply that these kinds were wanting, but no others...

Now we might be able to understand why the Torah emphasized in the previous section “the seed” and the “yielding of seed” in connection with the plants [in Genesis 1]. The purpose was to remove the discrepancy that might have been felt to exist between the account of creation given by the ancient poetic tradition and the story of the garden of Eden as recorded by the same tradition. To this end Scripture stressed again and again that the world of vegetation, as it was formed on the third day, was composed of those trees and herbs that naturally reproduce themselves by seed alone. Those plants that needed something else, in addition to seed, were excluded...<sup>25</sup>

2. Victor Hamilton:

“In regard to the creation narrative, is it necessary to posit two mutually exclusive, antithetical accounts? Could 2:4-5 be a continuation of rather than a break in the creation story, “a close-up after the panorama of Genesis 1,” or even simply an extended commentary on the sixth day of creation? The order of events in ch. 1 is chronological; the order of events in ch. 2 is logical and topical, from humankind to the environment... Most of the information in 2:4-25 is an amplification of 1:26-29. Chapter 1 is concerned with the world, while ch. 2 is concerned with a garden; one is cosmic, the other localized. God’s relationship to the world is in his capacity as Elohim, while his relationship to a couple in a garden is in his capacity as Yahweh Elohim; the first suggests his majesty and transcendence, the second his intimacy and involvement with his creation. Exactly why we must not posit a unity in Genesis 1-2 escapes me.<sup>26</sup>

The Pontifical Biblical Commission On the Historical Nature of Genesis 1-3 (1909)<sup>27</sup>

I. Whether the various methods of exegesis that have been thought up and defended under the guise of science and that exclude the literal historical meaning of the first three chapters of Genesis have a solid foundation?

Reply: Negative.

II. Whether it can be taught that the three first chapters of Genesis do not contain narratives of things that happened, or, in other words, that respond to objective reality and historical truth, notwithstanding

- the nature and historical form of the Book of Genesis;
- the particular connection of the first three chapters among themselves and with the following chapters
- the many testimonies of the Scriptures, both Old and New Testament;
- the almost unanimous opinion of the holy Fathers and the traditional meaning handed on by the people of Israel and always held by the Church?

But whether, on the contrary, these chapters:

- contain fables taken from mythologies and cosmogonies of ancient peoples adapted by the sacred author to monotheism by eliminating every polytheistic error;
- or they are allegories and symbols without any foundation in objective reality, put forward in the form of history to bring home religious and philosophical truths;
- or finally, legends partly historical and partly fictitious that have been freely composed for the instruction and edification of souls?

Reply: Negative, to both parts.

III. Whether, in particular, the literal historical meaning can be called into question where these chapters narrate facts which touch on the foundations of the Christian religion: among others, for example,

- the creation of all things by God at the beginning of time;
- the special creation of man;
- the formation of the first woman from the first man;
- the unity of the human race;
- the original happiness of our first parents in a state of justice, integrity, and immortality;
- the command given by God to human beings to test their obedience;
- the transgression of this divine precept at the instigation of the devil under the appearance of a serpent;
- the fall of the first parents from that primitive state of innocence;
- and the promise of a future Redeemer.

Reply: Negative.

<sup>27</sup> Text taken from The Church and the Bible: Official Documents of the Catholic Church (trans. and ed. Dennis J. Murphy, MSC; Boston: St. Pauls, 2007), 131-133.

IV. Whether, in interpreting those passages in these chapters which the Fathers and Doctors have understood in different ways, without having made anything definite or handed on anything certain, it is permissible to follow and defend that opinion for which each considers he has proof?

Reply: Affirmative.

V. Whether each and every word and phrase that occur in the above mentioned chapters are to be accepted always and necessarily in a literal sense, so that it is never permitted to deviate from it, even when the expressions are obviously used figuratively, i.e., metaphorically or anthropomorphically, and either reason rules out holding the literal sense, or necessity compels us to abandon it?

Reply: Negative.

VI. Whether one can wisely and usefully apply allegorical and prophetic interpretation to several passages in these chapters [Genesis 1-3] following the shining example of the holy Fathers and of the Church itself, while presupposing the literal and historical meaning?

Reply: Affirmative.

VII. Whether it is always necessary to search out meticulously a scientific way of speaking in the interpretation of these chapters, granted that the sacred author did not intend to teach scientifically the inner nature of visible things when writing the first chapter of Genesis or to present a complete order of creation, but rather to give his people a popular account in keeping with the common way of speaking of his contemporaries, or adapted to human sentiment and understanding?

Reply: Negative.

VIII. Whether in the description and distinction of the six days spoken of in the first chapter of Genesis, one can take the word yom (day) either in its strict meaning of a natural day, or in its figurative meaning of a certain period of time, and whether it is permissible for everyone to discuss this question freely?

Reply: Affirmative.

On 30 June 1909 in an audience kindly granted to the two secretary consultors, his Holiness [Pope Saint Pius X] ratified the above replies and ordered them to be published.

The Interpretation of the Hexaemeron (Genesis 1)<sup>28</sup>

1. The Literal-Historical Interpretation

1. God created the world successively in six natural days (24 hour periods)
2. Proponents of the literal-historical interpretation:
  - a. Josephus, the first-century Jewish historian
  - b. St. Ambrose
  - c. St. Jerome
  - d. St. John Chrysostom
  - e. Pope St. Gregory the Great
  - f. “The majority of ancient interpreters.”<sup>29</sup>
  - g. St. Thomas Aquinas (in his later Summa Theologica, Pt. I, Q. 74, Art. 2)
  - h. Victor Warkulwiz, M.S.S (priest physicist).<sup>30</sup>
3. Arguments for the literal-historical interpretation:
  - a. Primacy of the literal sense in interpretation<sup>31</sup>
  - b. Yom clearly means “day” in Gen 1:14-16
  - c. “And there was evening, and there was morning” = ordinary ‘day’<sup>32</sup>
  - d. The Ten Commandments: interpret Gen 1 literally (Exod 20:11; 31:17)
4. Arguments against the literal-historical interpretation:
  - a. The six days cannot be literal, since the sun is not created until Day 4.
  - b. The “work” and “rest” of God is undeniably symbolic, not literal
  - c. Scientific arguments: geological uniformitarianism, evolution, distant starlight

2. The Day-Age Interpretation

1. God created the world over many “ages,” symbolized by the “days” of Genesis
2. Proponents of day-age interpretation: modern view; Ruffini leans this way
3. Arguments for the Day-Age Interpretation:
  - a. Hebrew word “day” (yom) sometimes means an indefinite period<sup>33</sup>
  - b. Days 1-3 cannot be literal, since the sun is not created until Day 4
  - c. The succession of biblical “days” corresponds to the geological periods<sup>34</sup>
4. Arguments against the Day-Age Interpretation:
  - a. See arguments for the literal-historical interpretation above
  - b. “The unanimous interpretation of the fathers” is for ordinary days, not periods<sup>35</sup>
  - c. Scientific arguments: doubt about geological periods corresponding to Genesis

<sup>28</sup> For an excellent overview of the history of interpretation of Genesis 1, see Cardinal Ernesto Ruffini, The Theory of Evolution Judged by Reason and Faith (trans. Francis O’Hanlon; New York: Joseph A. Wagner, 1959), 65-89.

<sup>31</sup> “In the interpretation of Holy Scripture it is not lawful to depart from the obvious literal sense unless reason prohibits it or some necessity forces us to leave it.” Pope Leo XIII, Providentissimus Deus, following St. Augustine, On Genesis 8.7.13.

<sup>32</sup> See Ruffini, The Theory of Evolution, 77-78 for an excellent statement of this point.

3. The Symbolic Interpretation

1. The six days are a purely symbolic; does not correspond to how the world was created<sup>36</sup>
2. Proponents of symbolic interpretation(s): (not all identical)
  - a. Philo of Alexandria, the Jewish philosopher
  - b. Origen and St. Clement of Alexandria
  - c. St. Augustine, followed by St. Thomas Aquinas<sup>37</sup>
  - d. Most modern Catholic theologians: Baglow, Schoenborn, Ratzinger, Ruffini<sup>38</sup>
3. Arguments for the Symbolic Interpretation
  - a. The “work” and “rest” of God is undeniably symbolic
  - b. Days 1-3 take place before the creation of the sun on Day 4
  - c. The object of the biblical author is purely religious, not ‘scientific’
 (“The Bible tells us how to go to heaven, not how the heavens go.”)
  - d. Genesis 1 is not part of the book, but an “exordium”/prologue<sup>39</sup>
4. Arguments against the Symbolic Interpretation
  - a. See arguments for the literal-historical interpretation
  - b. Sabbath rest (and punishment) rests on God’s example in creating
  - c. Literary genre: the rest of Genesis is history; so is Genesis 1<sup>40</sup>
  - d. False dichotomy: why can’t Gen 1 be historical and theological?

4. The Mythological Interpretation

1. The six days are a “mythical cosmogony,” deriving from pagan myths of origins
2. Proponents of this interpretation:
  - a. Alfred Loisy (“father of the heresy of Modernism”)
  - b. John Collins<sup>41</sup> and most modern historical-critics
3. Arguments for the Mythological Interpretation:
  - a. Parallels between Genesis and Babylonian myths show pagan origin of Gen
  - b. Late-dating of Genesis (5th cent. B.C.); early dating of pagan myths
4. Arguments against the Mythological Interpretation:
  - a. Similarities between Genesis and pagan myths outweighed by differences<sup>42</sup>
  - b. Genesis not rooted in myth; pagan myths rooted in “primitive tradition”

<sup>37</sup> “Moses, when instructing an unlearned people about the creation of the world, divided up into several steps what was done all at once. However, Ambrose and other saints hold that there was an order of time by which things were distinguished. This opinion is indeed more generally held, and seems to accord better with the apparent literal sense [of Scripture]. Still, the previous theory [that of Augustine] is the more reasonable, and ensures a better defense of Holy Scripture against the derision of unbelievers... his theory is the one that appeals to me.” St. Thomas Aquinas, Commentary on the Sentences II, XII. q. 1., art. 2., citing Augustine, On Genesis, 1.19. <sup>43</sup> “I must draw attention to the almost total disappearance of the theology of the doctrine of creation. In this connection, it is symptomatic that in the two Summas of modern theology, teaching of creation as contained in the faith is omitted and replaced by vague considerations of existential philosophy... The decline in metaphysics has accompanied the decline in the doctrine of creation.” Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, Address to the presidents of the European doctrinal commissions in Vienna, Austria (May, 1989); cited in Warkulwiz, The Doctrines of Genesis 1-11, 1.

Caution with regard to the Positive Sciences

35 It remains for Us now to speak about those questions which, although they pertain to the positive sciences, are nevertheless more or less connected with the truths of the Christian faith. In fact, not a few now insistently demand that the Catholic religion take these sciences into account as much as possible. This certainly would be praiseworthy in the case of clearly proved facts; but caution must be used when there is rather a question of hypotheses, having some sort of scientific foundation, in which the doctrine contained in Sacred Scripture or Tradition is involved. If such conjectural opinions are directly or indirectly opposed to the doctrine revealed by God, then the demand that they be recognized can in no way be admitted.

Discussion of Evolution Permitted with Provisos

36 For these reasons the teaching authority of the Church does not forbid that, in conformity with the present state of human sciences and sacred theology, research and discussions, on the part of people experienced in both fields, take place with regard to the doctrine of evolution, in as far as it inquires into the origin of the human body as coming from pre-existent and living matter—for the Catholic faith obliges us to hold that souls are immediately created by God. However, this must be done in such a way that the reasons for both opinions, that is, those favorable and those unfavorable to evolution, be weighed and judged with the necessary seriousness, moderation, and measure; and provided that all are prepared to submit to the judgment of the Church, to whom Christ has given the mission of interpreting authentically the Sacred Scriptures and of defending the dogmas of the faithful. Some however rashly transgress this liberty of discussion, when they act as if the origin of the human body from pre-existing and living matter were already completely certain and proved by the fact which have been discovered up to now and by reasoning on those facts, and as if there were nothing in the sources of divine revelation which demands the greatest moderation and caution in this question.

Polygenism Forbidden

37 When, however, there is question of another conjectural opinion, namely polygenism, the children of the Church by no means enjoy such liberty. For the faithful cannot embrace that opinion which maintains that either after Adam there existed on this earth true men who did not take their origin through natural generation from him as from the first parent of all, or that Adam represents a certain number of first parents. Now it is no way apparent how such an opinion can be reconciled with that which the sources of revealed truth and the documents of the Magisterium of the Church propose with regard to original sin, which proceeds from a sin actually committed by an individual Adam and which, through generation, is passed on to all and is in everyone as his own.

Errors Regarding the Historicity of Genesis 1-11

38 Just as in the biological and anthropological sciences, so also in the historical sciences there are those who boldly transgress the limits and safeguards established by the Church. In a particular way must be deplored a certain too free interpretation of the historical books of the Old Testament. Those who favor this system, in order to defend their cause, wrongly refer to the Letter which was sent not long ago to the Archbishop of Paris by the Pontifical Commission on Biblical Studies.<sup>47</sup> This letter, in fact, clearly points out that the first eleven chapters of Genesis, although properly speaking not conforming to the historical method used by the best Greek and Latin writers or by competent authors of our time, do nevertheless pertain to history in a true sense, which however must be further studied and determined by exegetes; the same chapters, (the Letter points out), in simple and metaphorical language adapted to the mentality of a people but little cultured, both state the principal truths which are fundamental for our salvation, and also give a popular description of the origin of the human race and the chosen people. If, however, the ancient sacred writers have taken anything from popular narrations (and this may be conceded), it must never be forgotten that they did so with the help of divine inspiration, through which they were rendered immune from any error in selecting and evaluating those documents.

Scripture not on par with “Myths”

39 Therefore, whatever of the popular narrations have been inserted into the Sacred Scriptures must in no way be considered on a par with myths or other such things, which are more the product of an extravagant imagination than of that striving for truth and simplicity which in the Sacred Books, also of the Old Testament, is so apparent that our ancient sacred writers must be admitted to be clearly superior to the ancient profane writers.

Disputed Questions: The Scientific Theory of Evolution

Pope John Paul II, “More Than a Hypothesis” (1996)

Taking into account the state of scientific research at the time as well as of the requirements of theology, the encyclical Humani Generis considered the doctrine of “evolutionism” a serious hypothesis, worthy of investigation and in-depth study equal to that of the opposing hypotheses. Pius XII added two methodological conditions: that his opinion should not be adopted as though it were certain, proven doctrine and as though one could totally prescind from revelation with regard to the questions it raises. He also spelled out the condition on which this opinion would be compatible to the Christian faith, a point to which I will return. Today, nearly half a century after the publication of the encyclical, new knowledge leads to the recognition of the theory of evolution as more than a hypothesis. It is indeed remarkable that this theory has been progressively accepted by researchers following a series of discoveries in various fields of knowledge. The convergence, neither sought nor provoked, of the results of work that was conducted independently is in itself a significant argument in favor of this theory.<sup>48</sup>

Pope Benedict XVI:

“The Theory Evolution is Not a Complete, Scientifically Verified Theory” (2007)

In particular, to me it is important, first of all, that to a great extent the theory of evolution cannot be proved experimentally, quite simply because we cannot bring 10,000 generations into the laboratory. That means that there are considerable gaps in its experimental verifiability and falsifiability due to the enormous span of time to which the theory has reference. A second thing that was important to me was your statement that the probability is not zero, but not one, either. And so the question arises: How high is the probability now? This is especially important if we want to interpret correctly the remark made by Pope John Paul II: “The theory of evolution is more than a hypothesis.” When the Pope said that, he had his reasons. But at the same time it is true that the theory of evolution is still not a complete, scientifically verified theory.<sup>49</sup>

<sup>48</sup> John Paul II, Message to the Pontifical Academy of Sciences (1996), in Dennis Murphy MSC, The Church and the Bible (Boston: St Pauls/Alba House, 2007), 786-87.

<sup>49</sup> Pope Benedict XVI, in Creation and Evolution: A Conference with Pope Benedict XVI in Castel Gandolfo (trans. Michael J. Miller; San Francisco: Ignatius, 2007), 162 (emphasis added). Compare his earlier statements in Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, Truth and Tolerance: Christian Belief and World Religions (trans. Henry Taylor; San Francisco: Ignatius Press, 2004), 179-180 (emphasis added): “There is at any rate no getting around the dispute about the extent of the claims of the doctrine of evolution... This dispute has therefore to be approached objectively and with willingness to listen, by both sides—something that has hitherto been undertaken only to a limited extent. No one will be able to cast serious doubt upon the scientific evidence for micro-evolutionary processes. R. Junker and S. Scherer, in their “critical reader” on evolution, have this to say: “Many examples of such developmental steps [micro-evolutionary processes] are known to us from natural processes of variation and development. The research done on them by evolutionary biologists produced significant knowledge of the adaptive capacity of living systems, which seems ingenious...” Within the teaching about evolution itself, the problem emerges at the point of transition from micro- to macro-evolution, on which point Szathmáry and Maynard Smith, both convinced supporters of all all-embracing theory of evolution, nonetheless declare that “There is no theoretical basis for believing that evolutionary lines become more complex with time; and there is also no empirical evidence that this happens.”

The Catechism on Adam, Eve, and the Fall of Man (1992)

Original Sin—an essential truth of the faith

With the progress of Revelation, the reality of sin is also illuminated. Although to some extent the People of God in the Old Testament had tried to understand the pathos of the human condition in the light of the history of the fall narrated in Genesis, they could not grasp the story's ultimate meaning, which is revealed only in the light of the death and Resurrection of Jesus Christ. The doctrine of original sin is, so to speak, the "reverse side" of the Good News that Jesus is the Saviour of all men, that all need salvation and that salvation is offered to all through Christ. The Church, which has the mind of Christ, knows very well that we cannot tamper with the revelation of original sin without undermining the mystery of Christ. (Catechism no. 388)

How to read the account of the Fall:

The account of the fall in Genesis 3 uses figurative language, but affirms a primeval event, a deed that took place at the beginning of the history of man. Revelation gives us the certainty of faith that the whole of human history is marked by the original fault freely committed by our first parents. (Catechism no. 390)

Footnotes to Catechism no. 390

Council of Trent: [T]his sin of Adam... is one in origin and transmitted to all is in each one as his own by propagation, not by imitation. (Decree on Original Sin, Session V, 1546)

Pope Pius XII: When, however, there is question of another conjectural opinion, namely polygenism, the children of the Church by no means enjoy such liberty. For the faithful cannot embrace that opinion which maintains that either after Adam there existed on this earth true men who did not take their origin through natural generation from him as from the first parent of all, or that Adam represents a certain number of first parents. Now it is no way apparent how such an opinion can be reconciled with that which the sources of revealed truth and the documents of the Magisterium of the Church propose with regard to original sin, which proceeds from a sin actually committed by an individual Adam and which, through generation, is passed on to all and is in everyone as his own. (Encyclical, Humani Generis 37, 1950)

Vatican II: Although set by God in a state of rectitude, man, enticed by the evil one, abused his freedom at the very start of history. (Constitution, Gaudium et spes, 13:1, 1965)

Pope Paul VI (1966): [Y]ou will regard the explanations of original sin given by some modern authors as irreconcilable with genuine Catholic doctrine. Starting out from the undemonstrated hypothesis of polygenism, they deny, more or less clearly, that the sin from which this great trash heap of ills in mankind is derived, was first of all the disobedience of Adam, "the first man," a figure of the man to come—a sin that was committed at the beginning of history. As a consequence, such explanations do not agree with the teaching of Sacred Scripture, Sacred Tradition, and the Church's magisterium, according to which the sin of the first man is transmitted to all his descendants not through imitation but through propagation... (Allocution of 11 July, 1966)

<sup>60</sup> See Pope Pius XII, Encyclical Letter on Some False Teachings that Threaten to Undermine the Foundations of Catholic Doctrine, Humani Generis (1950), 37-40, as cited in CCC 390.

<sup>61</sup> Augustine, City of God, 15:16: "Therefore, the human race, subsequently to the first marriage of the man who was made of dust, and his wife who was made out of his side, required the union of males and females in order that it might multiply, and as there were no human beings except those that had been born of these two, men took their sisters for wives,—an act which was a certainly dictated by necessity in these ancient days as afterwards it was condemned by the prohibitions of religion." Augustine goes on to point that this would have only required one generation: "the grandchildren of the first pair" would have been "able to choose their cousins for wives," so that what was briefly permitted was no longer necessary. See also St. Thomas Aquinas, Summa Theologica, II-II, Q. 154, a. 9, which follows Augustine in recognizing that the "union of brothers and sisters goes back to olden times," but that it was eventually deemed "unbecoming" by "custom, and human or Divine Law."

<sup>62</sup> Cf. Augustine, City of God, Book 15, on the origins of the "City of Man" in Cain's descendants.

<sup>63</sup> The expression toledoth seems to mean "history" or "genealogy" in numerous passages; see Gen 2:4 (heaven and earth); 5:1 (Adam); 10:1 (sons of Noah); 11:10 (Shem); 11:27 (Terah); 25:12 (Ishmael); 25:19 (Isaac); 36:1, 9 (Esau); 37:1 (Jacob). In Gen 37:1, the meaning is clearly "historical genealogy," and is usually translated as "the history of the family of Jacob" (RSV), even though the expression is identical to that used, say, in Gen 1-2. Cf. Kenneth Kitchen, On the Historical Reliability of the Old Testament, 427-28.

5. Antediluvian Lifespan: How should we interpret the accounts?
  - a. Historical Years: human life-spans actually longer before the Flood<sup>64</sup>
  - b. Shorter “Years”: “years” meant a shorter timeframe<sup>65</sup>
  - c. Symbolic Years: the years are intended merely to symbolize decline
  - d. Mythical Interpretation: “these genealogies are fictional.”<sup>66</sup>

<sup>64</sup> Augustine, City of God, 15:9, notes that “some skeptic[s] take exception to this very length of years which our authors ascribe to the antediluvians and deny that this is credible.” Nevertheless, he holds that “we are not on this account to withhold our faith from the sacred history, whose statements of past fact we are the more inexcusable in discrediting, as we see the accuracy of its prediction of what was future.”

<sup>65</sup> Augustine, City of God, 15:12, refutes this position when he says: “For they are by no means to be listened to who suppose that in those times years were differently reckoned, and were so short that one of our years may be supposed to be equal to ten of theirs. So that they say, when we read or hear that some man lived 900 years, we should understand ninety, ten of those years making but one of ours, and ten of ours equaling 100 of theirs....” Augustine goes on to point out that such plausible arguments are given by “certain persons, with no desire to weaken the credit of this sacred history, but rather to facilitate belief in it by removing the difficulty of such incredible longevity...” Nevertheless, he concludes that “there is the plainest evidence to show that this is quite false,” since in the Hebrew manuscript Kenan begat his son Mahalalel when he was 70 years old. “If seventy years in those times meant only seven of our years, what man of seven years old begets children?” Moreover, Augustine goes on to show that the text of Genesis itself describes the length of the flood by breaking up the year into the segments known to an ordinary year (Gen 7:10-11); hence, “[I]n the enormously protracted lives of those men the years were not so short that ten of their years were equal to only one of ours, but were of as great length as our own, which are measured by the course of the sun.” Significantly, Augustine critiques this view with a timely warning: “Far be this error from us—an error which seeks to build up our faith in the divine Scriptures on false conjecture only to demolish our faith at another point.” See also Kaiser, The Old Testament Documents, 67-75.

These words of the LORD are to be understood metaphorically, and according to the likeness of our nature. For when we repent, we destroy what we have made... Therefore God is said to have repented, by way of comparison with our mode of acting, insofar as by the Deluge he destroyed from the face of the earth man whom He had made." And: "His words must be understood metaphorically. For men seem to repent, when they do not fulfill what they have threatened."

The History of the Patriarchs (Genesis 12-50)

Historical Question: Are the Patriarchs Historical?

1. Historical Interpretation<sup>74</sup>

- a. Literary Genre: Gen 12-50 is a work of history
- b. Internal Evidence: geography, place names, dates abound
- c. External Evidence: treated as history by OT, NT, Jewish tradition
- d. Biblical Archeology: cannot expect much of nomads like patriarchs.<sup>75</sup>
- e. Contextual Plausibility: parallels b/w patriarchs and 2nd millennium<sup>76</sup>
(Slave prices; covenant forms, Haran desolate after 1800 BC, etc.)<sup>77</sup>

2. Legendary Interpretation:

- a. No external confirmation “from other sources”
- b. No explicit archaeological evidence for patriarchs
- c. Cultural Parallels are ambiguous; can be applied to other eras
- e. Literary Genre: stories of patriarchs belong to “genre... of legend”<sup>78</sup>

History	vs.	Legend
1. Written Form		1. Oral Tradition
2. Prose		2. Poetry
3. Public Occurrences		3. Personal/Private matters
4. What actually happened		4. Narrates the “incredible” <sup>79</sup>

3. Church Teaching: assumes the historicity of Abraham and covenant:

In order to gather together scattered humanity, God calls Abram from his country, his kindred, his father’s house, and makes him Abraham, that is, ‘the father of a multitude of nations...’ The people descended from Abraham would be the trustees of the promise made to the patriarchs, the chosen people, called to prepare for that date when God would gather all his children into the unity of the Church... After the patriarchs, God formed Israel as his people... (Catechism nos. 59-60, 62)

<sup>74</sup> For discussion, see esp. Kenneth A. Kitchen, On the Reliability of the Old Testament (Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 2003), 313-372; Roland de Vaux, The Early History of Israel (trans. D. Smith; Philadelphia: Westminster, 1978), 1:200; Giuseppe Ricciotti, The History of Israel (2 vols.; Milwaukee: Bruce, 1955), 115-166.

<sup>75</sup> “We should not expect people living such a lifestyle between 3,500 and 4,000 years ago to have left any archaeological evidence of their existence, and ancient texts from urban centers are unlikely to specifically document their presence.” James K. Hoffmeier, The Archaeology of the Bible (London: Lion, 2008)

<sup>76</sup> See esp. Hoffmeier, The Archaeology of the Bible, 40 (quote). See also Kaiser, The Old Testament Documents, 85-89, following John Bright, A History of Israel (2d ed.; Philadelphia: Westminster, 1972), 91.

<sup>79</sup> According to Collins, Gunkel saw this last criterion as “the clearest criterion of legend.” Collins, Introduction to the Hebrew Bible, 86.

  - b. Homosexual Sin: “Bring them...that we may know (yada’) them” (19:5)
4. The Catechism of the Catholic Church on Homosexual Acts and Sodom:

“Basing itself on Sacred Scripture, which presents homosexual acts as acts of grave depravity [footnote cites Gen 19:1-29], tradition has always declared that ‘homosexual acts are intrinsically disordered’. They are contrary to the natural law. (CCC 2357)

The catechetical tradition also recalls that there are “sins that cry to heaven”: the blood of Abel, the sin of the Sodomites [citing Gen 18:20; 19:13] the cry of the people oppressed in Egypt, the cry of the foreigner, the widow, and the orphan, injustice to the wage earner. (CCC 1867)

6. Abraham’s prophecy “God will provide himself the lamb”
7. Abraham calls the mountain:
  - a. “The LORD will provide” (YHWH yireh)
  - b. Compare Jeru-salem (“The Lord will provide peace”)
8. God’s Sworn Oath: Universal Blessing for the Nations (22:15-18)

<sup>82</sup> Modern biblical scholarship tends to cast doubt on whether the sin of the Sodomites was in fact homosexual actions. See, e.g., the footnote to the New American Bible: “Israelite tradition was unanimous in ascribing the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah to the wickedness of these cities, but tradition varied in regard to the nature of the wickedness. According to the present account of the Yahwist, the sin of Sodom was homosexuality (Gn 19, 4f), which is therefore also known as sodomy; but according to Isaiah (1, 9f; 3, 9), it was a lack of social justice; Ezekiel (16, 46-51) described it as disregard for the poor, whereas Jeremiah (23, 14), saw it as general immorality.” See The Catholic Study Bible: New American Bible (New York: Oxford University Press, 1990), p. 21. This position is, to say the least, exegetically dubious, since it misinterprets the prophetic applications of the depravity of Sodom (as a proverbial example) to contemporary Jerusalem by figures such as Isaiah, Ezekiel, and Jeremiah as redefinitions of the sin of Sodom. It also ignores that the New Testament explicitly identifies the sin of Sodom as sexual “licentiousness” (2 Pet :6-8). For an exhaustive study, see Robert Gagnon, The Bible and Homosexual Practice: Texts and Hermeneutics (Nashville: Abingdon, 2002), 71-91.

The Book of Exodus

Is the Exodus Historical?

1. Historical Interpretation<sup>83</sup>

- a. Literary Genre: Exodus is a work of history
- b. Internal Evidence: geography, place names, dates abound
- c. External Evidence: treated as history by OT, NT, Jewish tradition
- d. Manetho, Egyptian historian, affirms Exodus as history (4th cent. BC)<sup>84</sup>
- e. Biblical Archeology: provides cultural support for exodus accounts
- f. Contextual Plausibility: parallels b/w Israelites and Egyptian culture (Moses an Egyptian name; evidence for Semitic slaves, 'Apiru, etc.)<sup>85</sup>

2. Legendary Interpretation:<sup>86</sup>

- a. Exodus is “not attested in any ancient nonbiblical source” (except Egyptian historian Manetho; identifies Israelites with the Hyksos!)
- b. Pharaoh is never named; like a “character in a folktale”
- c. Cultural parallels/contextual plausibility do not establish historicity
- d. “Genre of the stories is legendary and folkloristic” not “historiography”
- e. Reason: they are “replete with miraculous incidents”<sup>87</sup>

3. Catholic Church Teaching: assumes the historicity of Moses and Exodus:

After the patriarchs, God formed Israel his people by freeing them from slavery in Egypt. He established with them the covenant of Mount Sinai and, through Moses, gave them his law so that they would recognize him and serve him as the one living and true God, the provident Father and just judge, and so that they would look for the promised savior.<sup>88</sup>

The Call of Moses (Exodus 1-4)<sup>89</sup>

1. All 12 Tribes have descendants in Egypt (1:1)

4. Purpose of Exodus:
  - a. To worship God (Hb abad; Gk latreuo) (Exod 3:12)
  - b. To enter into promised land of “milk and honey” (Exod 3:17)

  - a. Ban could be applied to Israelite idolators as well (Deut 13:12-18)

The Israelites practiced herem warfare, in which whole cities and their inhabitants were devoted to destruction... This holy war was a concession of the Deuteronomical covenant, announced after the Israelites had twice lapsed into idolatrous worship during the wilderness period; its stern provisions were necessary because God knew that otherwise his people were too weak to resist the attraction of Canaanite idolatry.<sup>140</sup>
